Strategies That Work!

The following strategy for ending struggles with your child is quoted from an article on the Positive Discipline website.

Follow through with children: If you say it, mean it, and if you mean it, follow through.

Kids know when you mean it and when you don't.

If you say, "I will read a story at 8:00 after pajamas are on and teeth are brushed," and your kids aren't ready by 8:00, then kindly and firmly point out the time and put the kids to bed without reading.

Be encouraging by saying, "You can try again tomorrow."

A free article written for parents with more information and examples is available on the Positive Discipline website, along with many other free articles. We use these strategies in our classroom, and you're invited to an introduction to Positive Discipline.
